

For Immediate Release

Thankyou Announce They Are Now Carbon Neutral

(Melbourne, Australia) - In honour of World Environment Day this Saturday, June 5, Australian based social enterprise, Thankyou, are excited to announce that they've been officially Carbon Neutral Certified.

At Thankyou, their responsible business goals have been an integral part of the way they do business. Thankyou believes that how they manufacture their products and the decisions they make as they scale this movement globally are intrinsically linked to their mission.

"We know we aren't perfect, but we do hold a deep resolve to continuously improve and progress on our sustainability journey. You may know that as a team, we've set ourselves responsible business goals. One of our goals was to become 100% carbon neutral by offsetting our greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions" says Thankyou Managing Director and Co-Founder, Daniel Flynn.

Thankyou has achieved their Carbon Neutral Certification in Australia for all operations in partnership with Climate Active for FY2020. As part of this assessment, carbon emissions associated with all Thankyou products and supply chain were also included.

"Becoming certified carbon neutral is an early step in our commitment to operating responsibly to our internal and external stakeholders. Minimising and offsetting our greenhouse gas emissions is an important, initial step that we're taking as we continue to sustainably grow. As an organisation we're continuing to look for ways to improve and increase our responsible business practices, this is just the beginning!"

For further information about Thankyou, please visit www.thankyou.co or follow the journey at @thankyouaus.

###